We, the Class of 1954, take great pleasure in dedicating our Epilogue to James Keough, our Class Advisor. It is only through his loyal guidance as our home-room teacher that we succeeded so well in all we undertook to do as Seniors. He shall always be remembered by all of us as a wonderful teacher, but more than that, as a wonderful friend.

Last Will and Testament

To Mr. Rowe, we leave our sincerest appreciation for all he has done for us during our school days.

To Mr. Collins, we will a Senior Class that will abide by his rules and not make up their own.

To Mrs. Kelley, we am gonna to leave a Senior Class dat'l loin da rules for da Hinglish test. Good chance, huh?

To Mr. Keough, we leave a Law Class that will take tests when they are scheduled, and not keep putting them off for weeks at a time.

To Miss Mulgrew, we will a chemistry class that will not give the whole school a stench.

To Mr. Conlan, we leave a Senior Class that will not interrupt his class without asking his permission. Of course, we always asked his permission.

To Miss Cote, we leave a typing class that will take five-minute timed writings without interrupting them.

To Miss Bailey, we bequeath a class that will not forget to clean up the Home-Economics Room after Senior functions.

To Mr. Flynn, we leave a basketball team that will break the records set by the team of "54."

To Mr. Godin, we leave a jet-propelled vacuum cleaner so he won't have to be up all hours of the night cleaning the auditorium.

Pal Allaire leaves to Fig Robidoux her speedy driving ability. We're sure you can use it, Fig.

Terry Blain leaves to Connie Lemire her quiet manner and ladylike charm. Not that Connie needs them, of course.

To any underclassman, Claire Gauthier leaves her position as office secretary. May she be as efficient as Claire was.

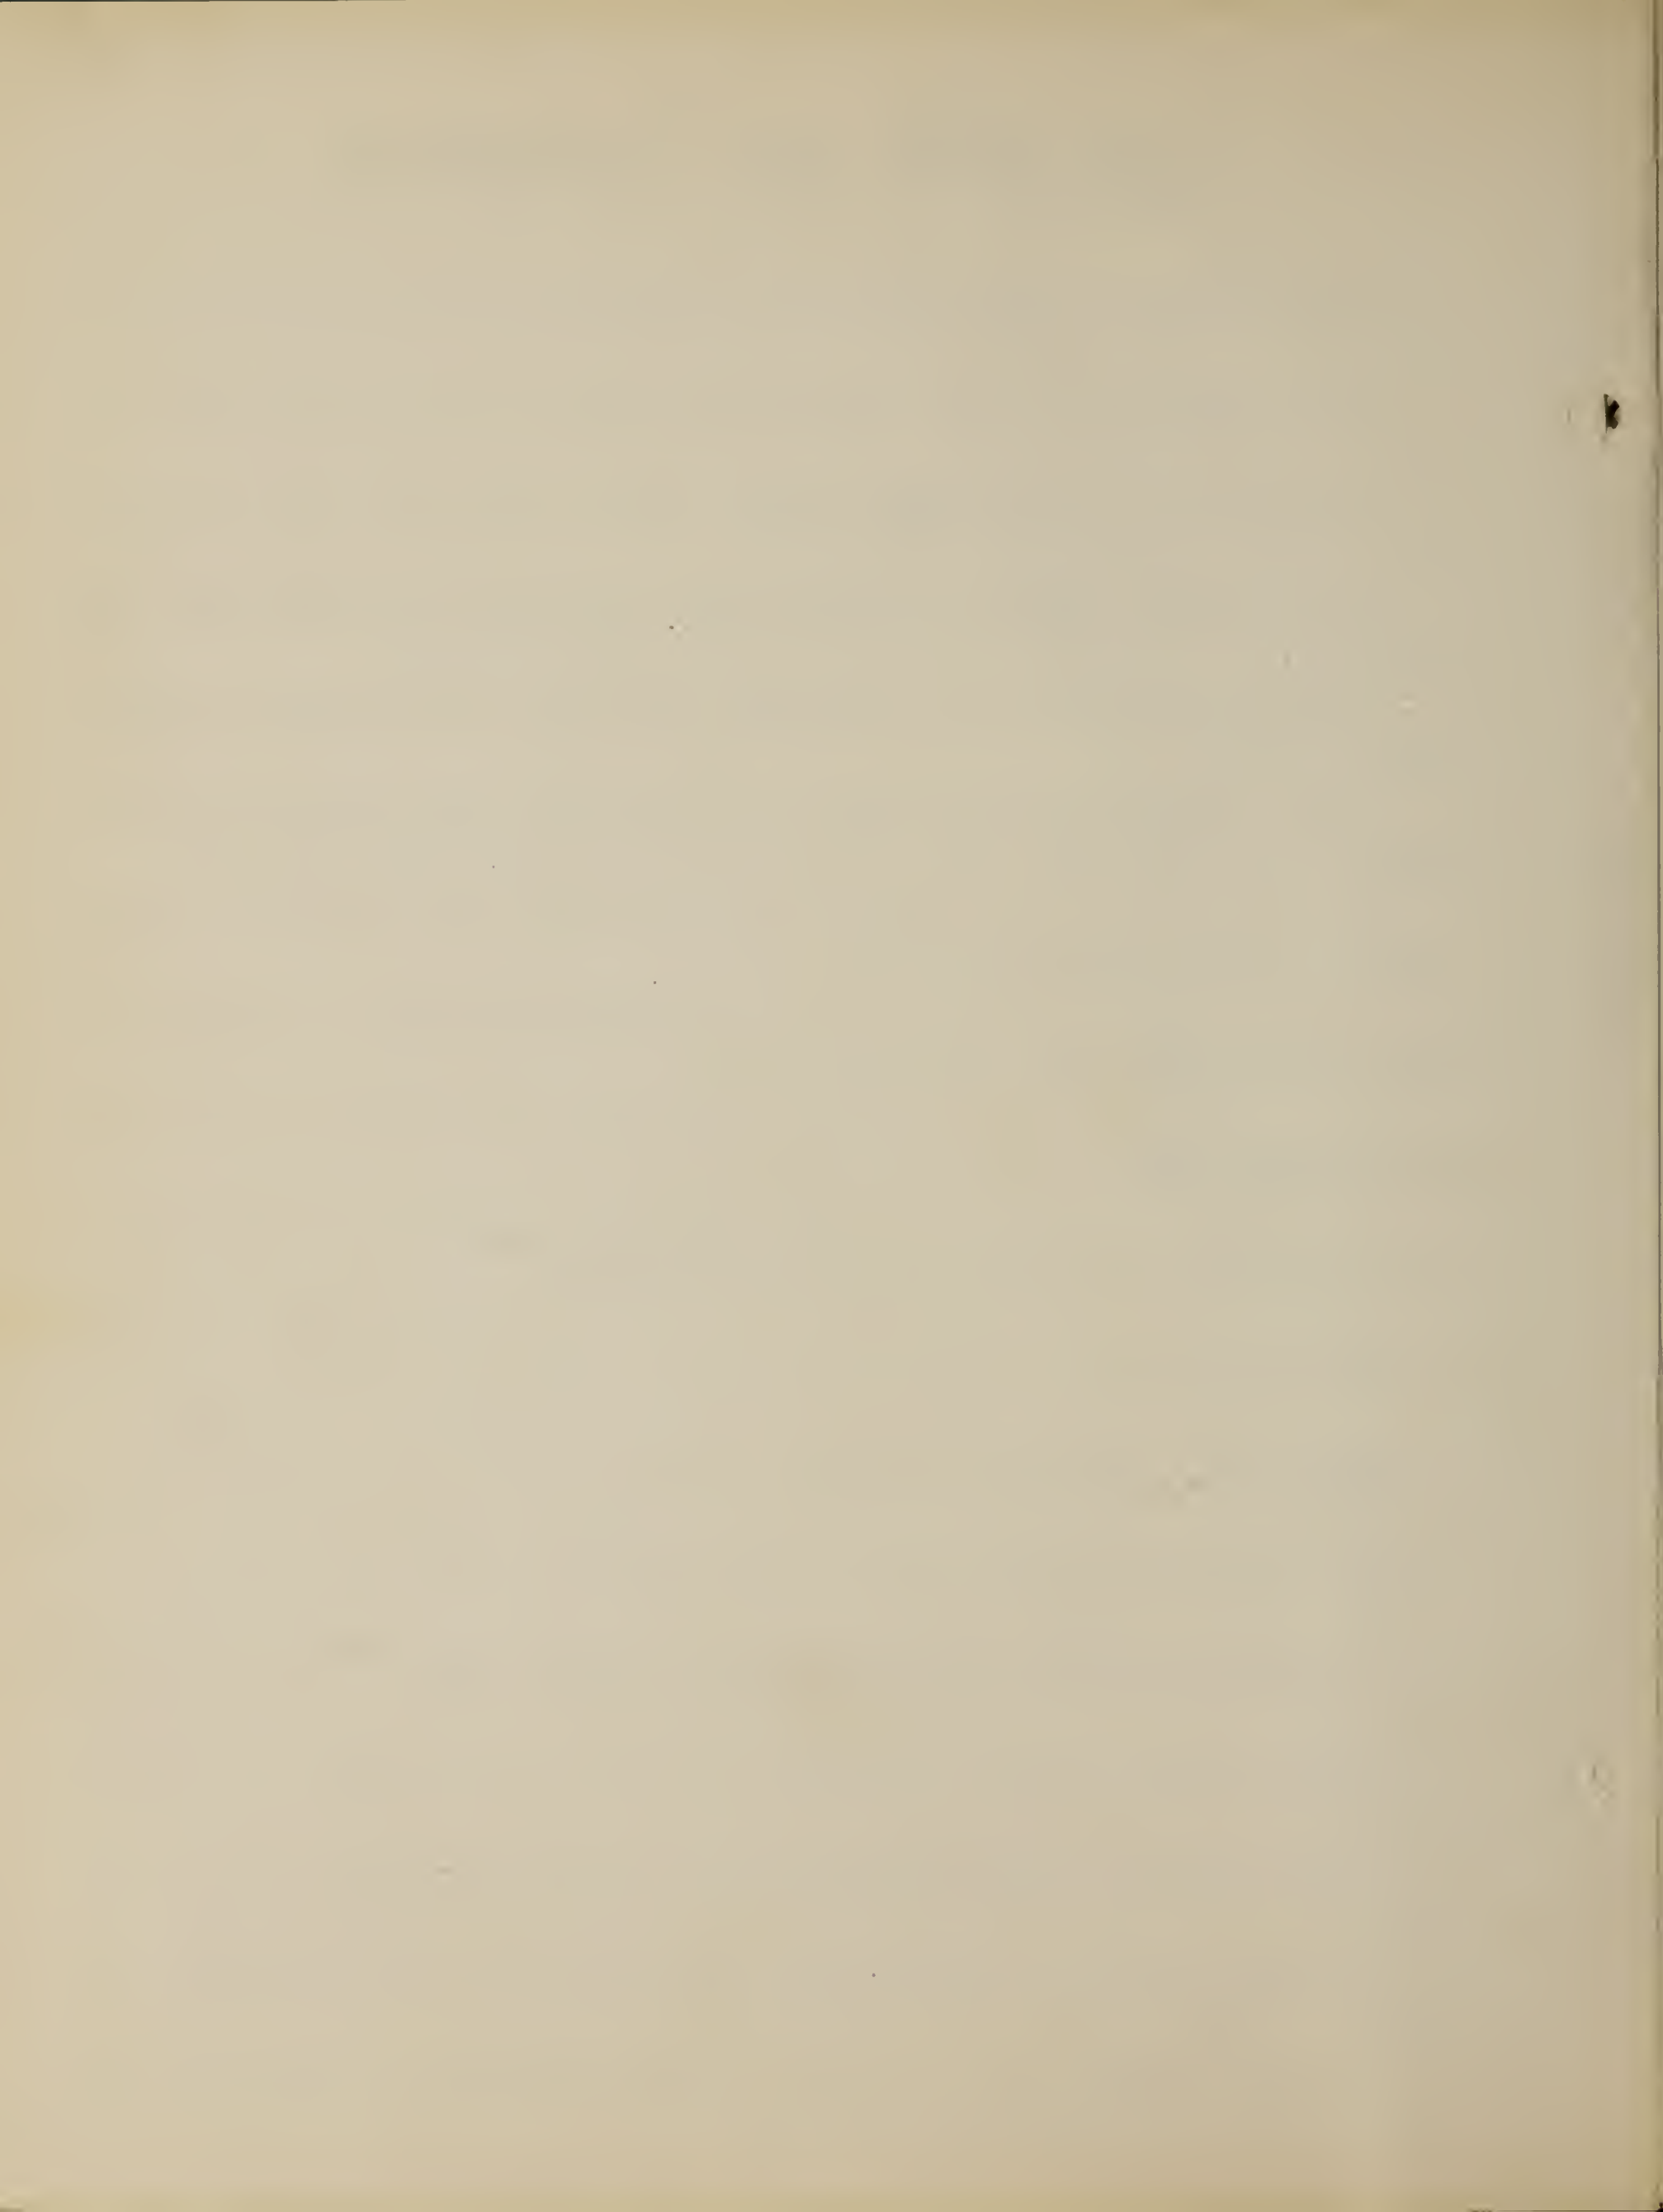

To Donald Canestrari, Roger Canestrari bequeaths his center position. May Donnie play as good a game of basketball as Rookie did.

Franny Paulhus leaves her tendency to blush to Elaine Fagan whose complexion also becomes quite rosy now and then.

Ronnie Koloski leaves to Bobby Purich his carefree optimistic spirit and attractive smile. We know that Bobby will make the most of them.

To Janet Poirier, Lou Poirier wills her sweet and gentle disposition so that Janet may also be the most popular Senior girl.

Kathleen Fielder wills her title of Best-dressed girl to Claire Pelland. We hope Claire doesn't let us down.

Shirley Godin leaves to any cute blond the anchor she used to keep her heart on solid ground.

Butch Melville bequeaths to the future Senior president a 50-pound gavel to be used in calling the class meetings to order.

Laurent Dalpe wills his artistic ability to Carmen Giardino to be used by the Senior Class so that the advertising will attract much attention and help the seniors make their money to go to Washington.

To Muriel Chamberland, Connie Hachey leaves her ability to attract the boys' attention in class.

Carol Bouliane leaves her very neat ways to Lou Rivet so that Lou also may be the neatest senior girl.

Georgette Cote leaves her witty remarks to Estelle Racine so that Estelle too may stall for time during English class.

To the "Typical High School Boy" of the next Senior Class, Coody Schwenker leaves his shy but winning ways.

Florence Laquerre leaves her long curly hair to Denise Casavant so Denise may also be the center of attraction.

Roland Gagnon leaves his carefree, happy-go-lucky manner to Ronnie Leach. We know Ronnie will make good use of them.

Dolly Bokoski leaves to any underclassman a book entitled "How to Drive a Car Without Gas or Push It to the Nearest Gas Station."

Lorraine Dalpe leaves to Marcia Fortin her studious, well-mannered ways. Not that Marcia isn't studious!!!

Dolly Pretto leaves her ability to be Editor-in-chief to the next senior who will hold that same position. She also leaves a box of headache pills to go along with it.

Eddie Newlands leaves to any future senior who wants to cut classes the famous desk he used to climb to the clock and turn it backwards in Room 4.

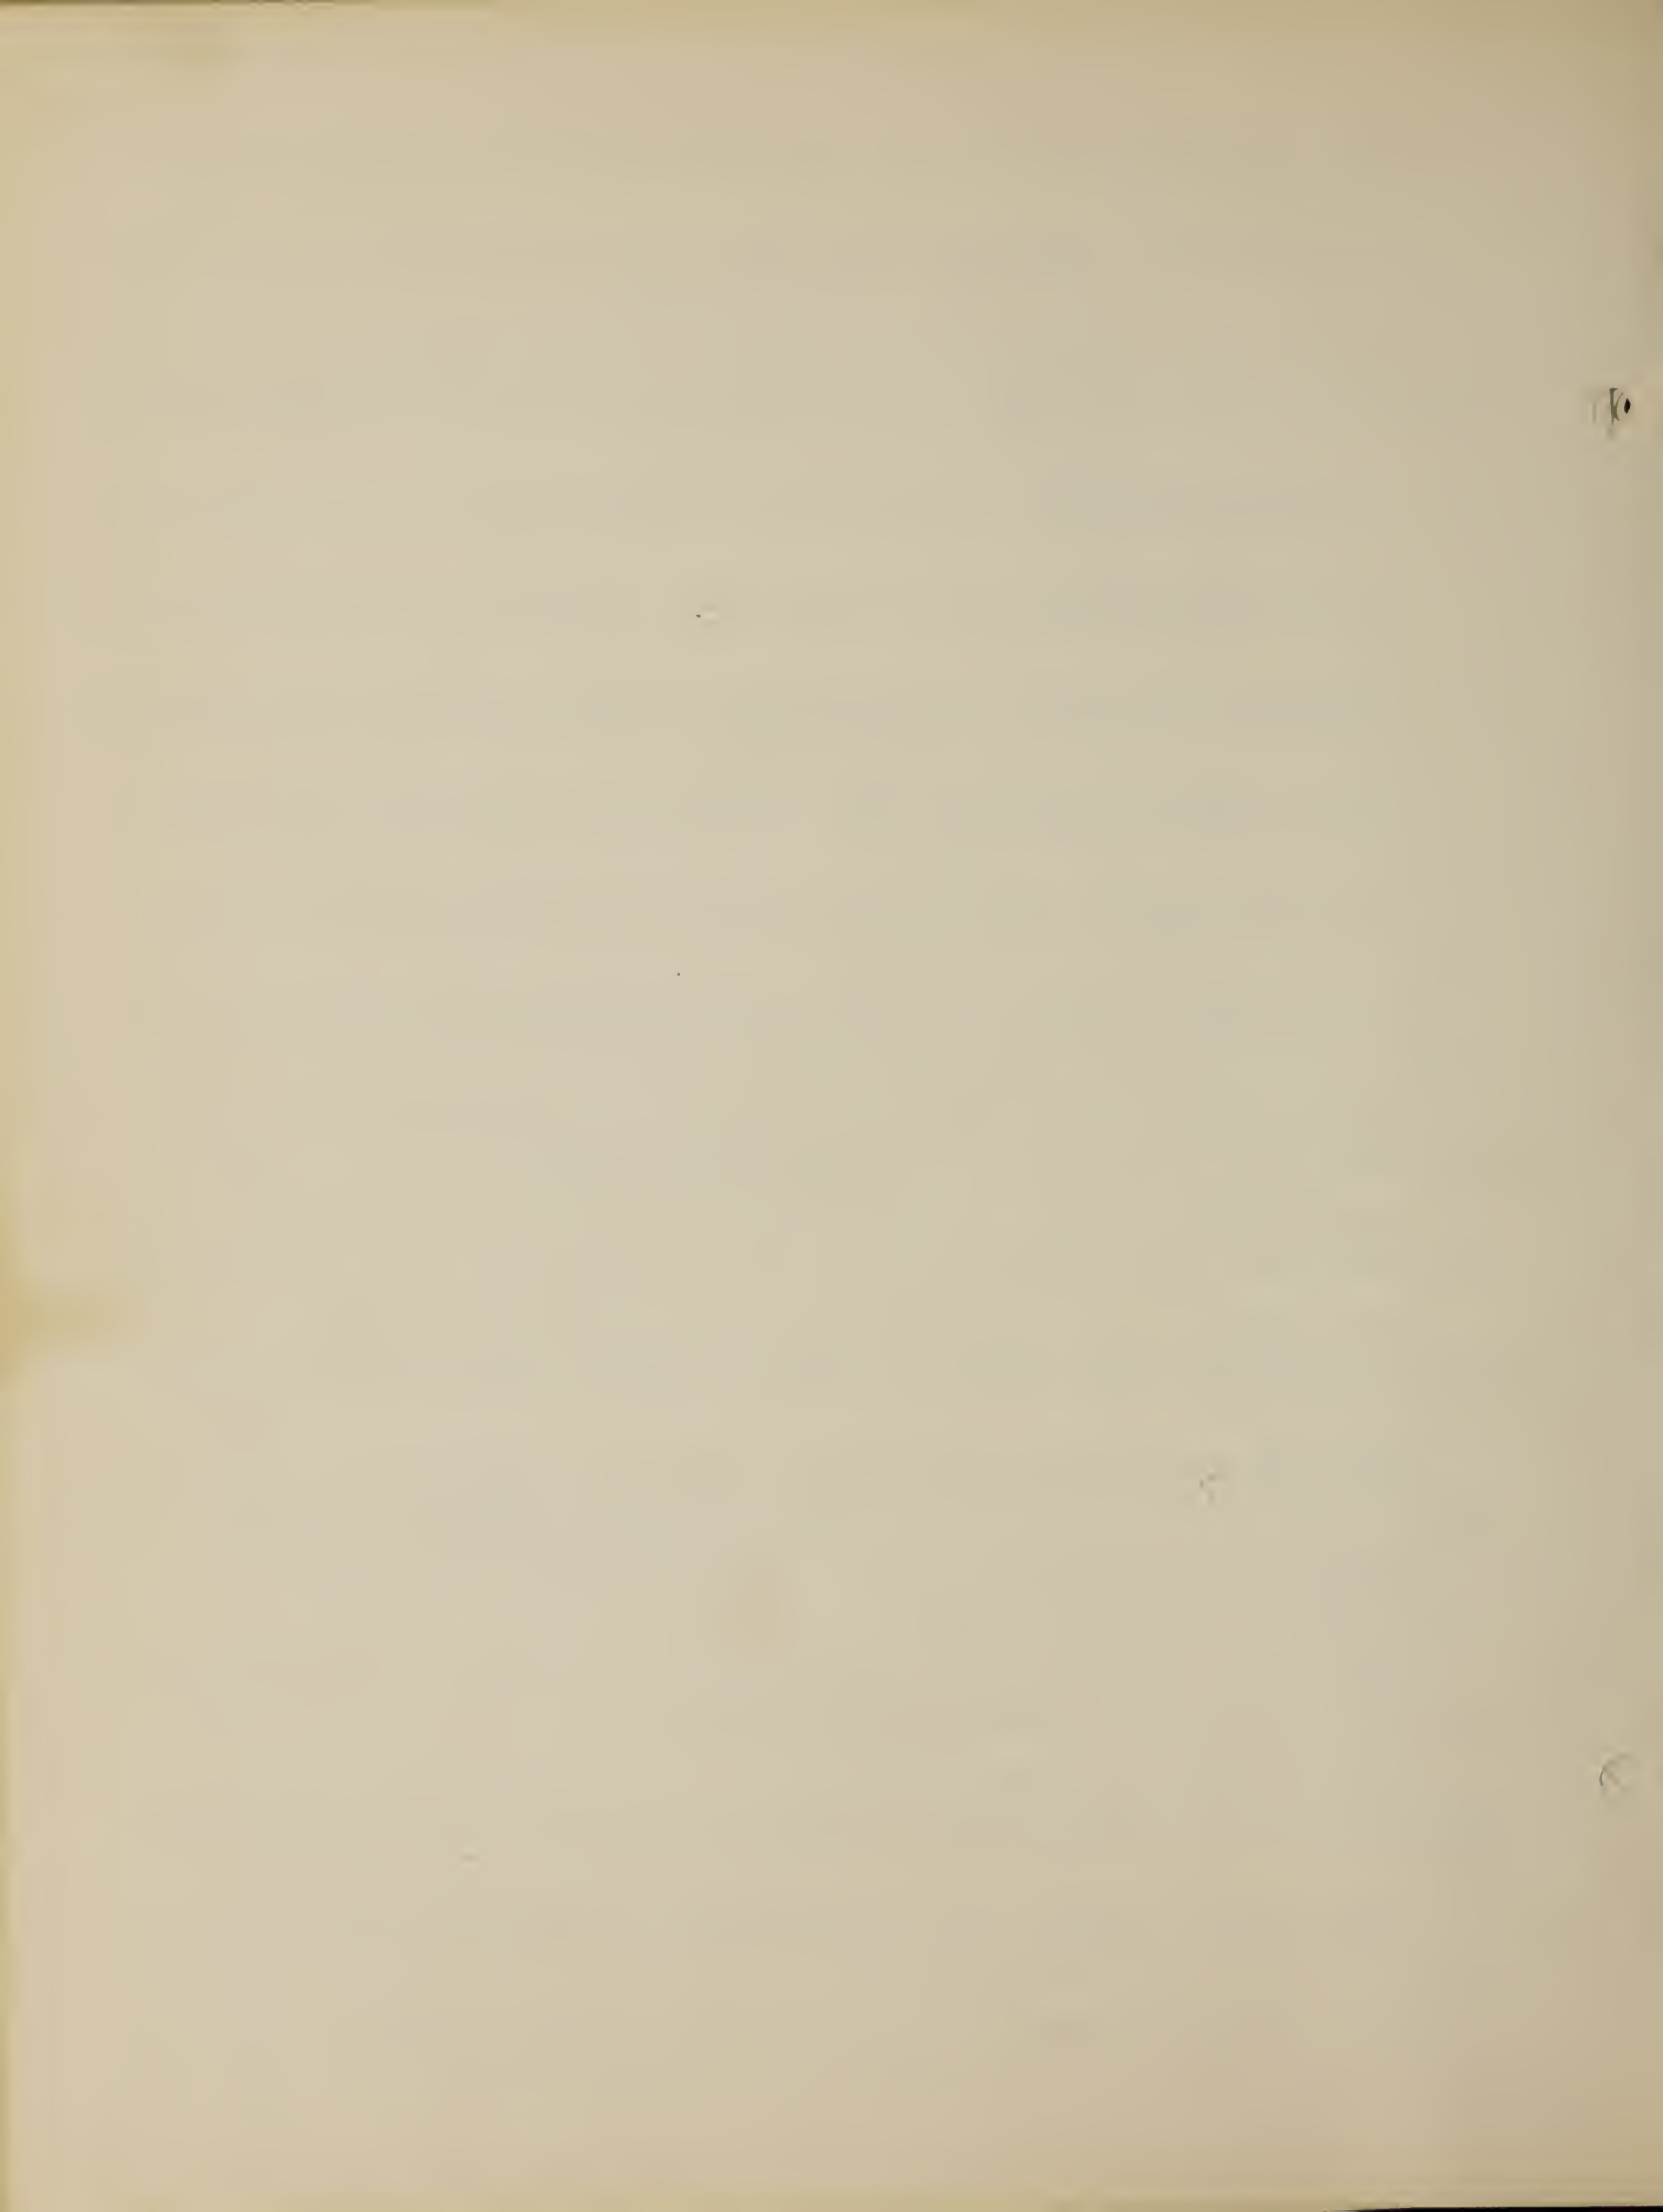

George Brown leaves his modern, luxurious Ford to Donnie Dahlstrom so that Donnie too may ride in style.

Paul Laprade leaves to any ambitious boy a book entitled "How to Hold a Full-time Job and Still Manage to Attend School."

Charlie Gerrior bequeaths his ability to be the boy who does most for the Senior Class to any future Senior who wants to help the Seniors get to Washington.

Ronnie Ozella leaves to any underclassman a stepladder so that he can always be sitting on top of the world.

Bobby Rocheford bequeaths his dancing shoes to that Sophomore jitterbug, Jerry Chaput. We're sure you'll make good use of them, Jerry.

Walter Hoothay wills his courteous? manner on the road to any underclassman. You see, Walt's father is a constable.

William Sanborn leaves his winning ways to any newcomer at Bellingham High School. May they be as easy to get along with as Billy.

Roger Cote bequeaths his last seat in the English class to George Racine so that George won't be noticed by the teacher.

Alan Tuttle leaves to any underclassman his bashful? ways and quiet manner.

Jimmy Mazdrachi leaves his amiable smile and charming ways to anyone who wants to be popular with all the girls.

Mary Nevers leaves her athletic ability to any underclassman who wants to be the most athletic Senior girl.

Having been declared quite sane by all who know me, I dedicate this will to all who are willing to grin and bear it.

Class Poem

Today we graduate, today we part,
Hope for the future lies in each heart.
Many ambitions yet to be fulfilled,
Our futures shall be as God has willed.

Thirty-two separate ways, we take,
Each one holds a future at stake.
We all trust that we will succeed,
And of all our prayers, God may take heed.

Class Prophecy

Patricia Allaire

Tonight is June 24, 1964, the tenth anniversary of our graduation, and the date of our first class reunion. As I sit here before the fireplace eagerly awaiting the arrival of my guests, my mind wanders back to the year 1954 and to the classmates I left behind so long ago to come to New York and try my luck as a certified public accountant in the big city. Who knows? Maybe I would have been a great success if I hadn't met John D. Rockefeller IV and settled down as the wife of one of the richest men in the world. Oh, well, I guess you can call that success of a sort.

The first guest to be ushered into my penthouse apartment is Robert Melville, our former class president. Butch, as usual, has the latest news of what's what and who's who, and he tells me that he was graduated from college and is now a successful draftsman. At this point the maid announces the arrival of Roland Gagnon. Cheerful as ever, Roland is now the owner of one of the largest dairy farms in New England. The next guest to arrive, Ronald Koloski, rushes in wearing a smile bigger than ever. Pesky was very successful at college and is now the owner of a large brokerage firm on Wall Street as well as being very happily married.

It is now eight o'clock and most of my guests should be arriving soon. My maid enters to announce that the Misses Dolores Pretto and Shirley Godin have arrived, accompanied by a person whose name I could not place. However, as they approach I recognize the third person to be Lucille Poirier. I should have known that these three girls would come together for they were inseparable friends all through high school. Lou is now happily married and the mother of four children, all boys. Dolly is a very successful general manager of Grant's Department Store, and also owns a cute little restaurant called the Italian Kitchen, which serves the best pizzas this side of Italy. Shirley is now the personnel manager of the new health clinic located near Linwood Avenue, and civic-minded Shirley is also the newly-elected tax collector of the town of Bellingham.

Carol Bouliane has just followed the maid into the living room. Carol did not have to tell me how well she had fared in her chosen career, for her modeling agency, the Bouliane Doll House, is famous all over the world. It is no wonder that Carol's agency is so successful, for her best model is the very attractive Claire Gauthier, whose beautiful features have appeared on the covers of so many of America's leading magazines. Because of an important fashion show going on in New York, Claire will be unable to be here until later in the evening.

Following Carol into the living room is Theresa Blain. She is now one of the best fashion designers in the United States and her beautiful fashions are known the world over. Terry tells us that she is going to attend the grand 1964 fashion parade in Paris this year and that she expects her fashions to compete very well with those designed by all the famous French and Italian designers.

Before the maid could announce the next guest, my eye caught sight of a light blue uniform. Souski, I called! Dolores Bokoski smiled good-naturedly at the use of her old nick name. Six years as an airline hostess have not changed her personality at all. She is the same fun-loving Dolly, gay as ever.

Momentarily, further conversation becomes impossible. A gust of wind, the sound of a propeller, and a heavy thud on the penthouse roof interrupts us and in walks George Brown, a great success in inventing Automatic Jet-Propelled Cars. While we wait for the other guests to arrive, George explains that he had invented this machine and sold over two million cars. Yes, indeed, George who was a quiet classmate, has done very well in life.

Television had come to Bellingham in the course of these ten years, and tonight Channel 25 of Bellingham features the championship basketball game starring Roger Canestrari. Rookie had written to me earlier in the week saying that he would be a little late because of the big game. The announcer, Laurent Dalpe, is a great success in the field of electronics, as he operates his own TV station "Bellingham, Channel 25."

Three charming young ladies in nurses' uniforms are the next guests to arrive. Kathleen Fielder, Georgette Cote, and Mary Nevers are all on the staff of the beautiful new Bellingham General Hospital, recently completed and designed by Roger Cote, now a famous architect.

Butch called our attention to an editorial in the Bellingham Reporter written by the editor of that paper, Charles Gerrior. The editorial dealt with a cruise which was to be made to Japan to further our diplomatic relations with that country. The caption read; "Three area admirals home on leave before cruise to Japan: James Mazdrachi, William Sanborn, and Ronald Ozella." Jim, Bill, and Ronnie have made the navy their career and have risen to amazing heights in this service.

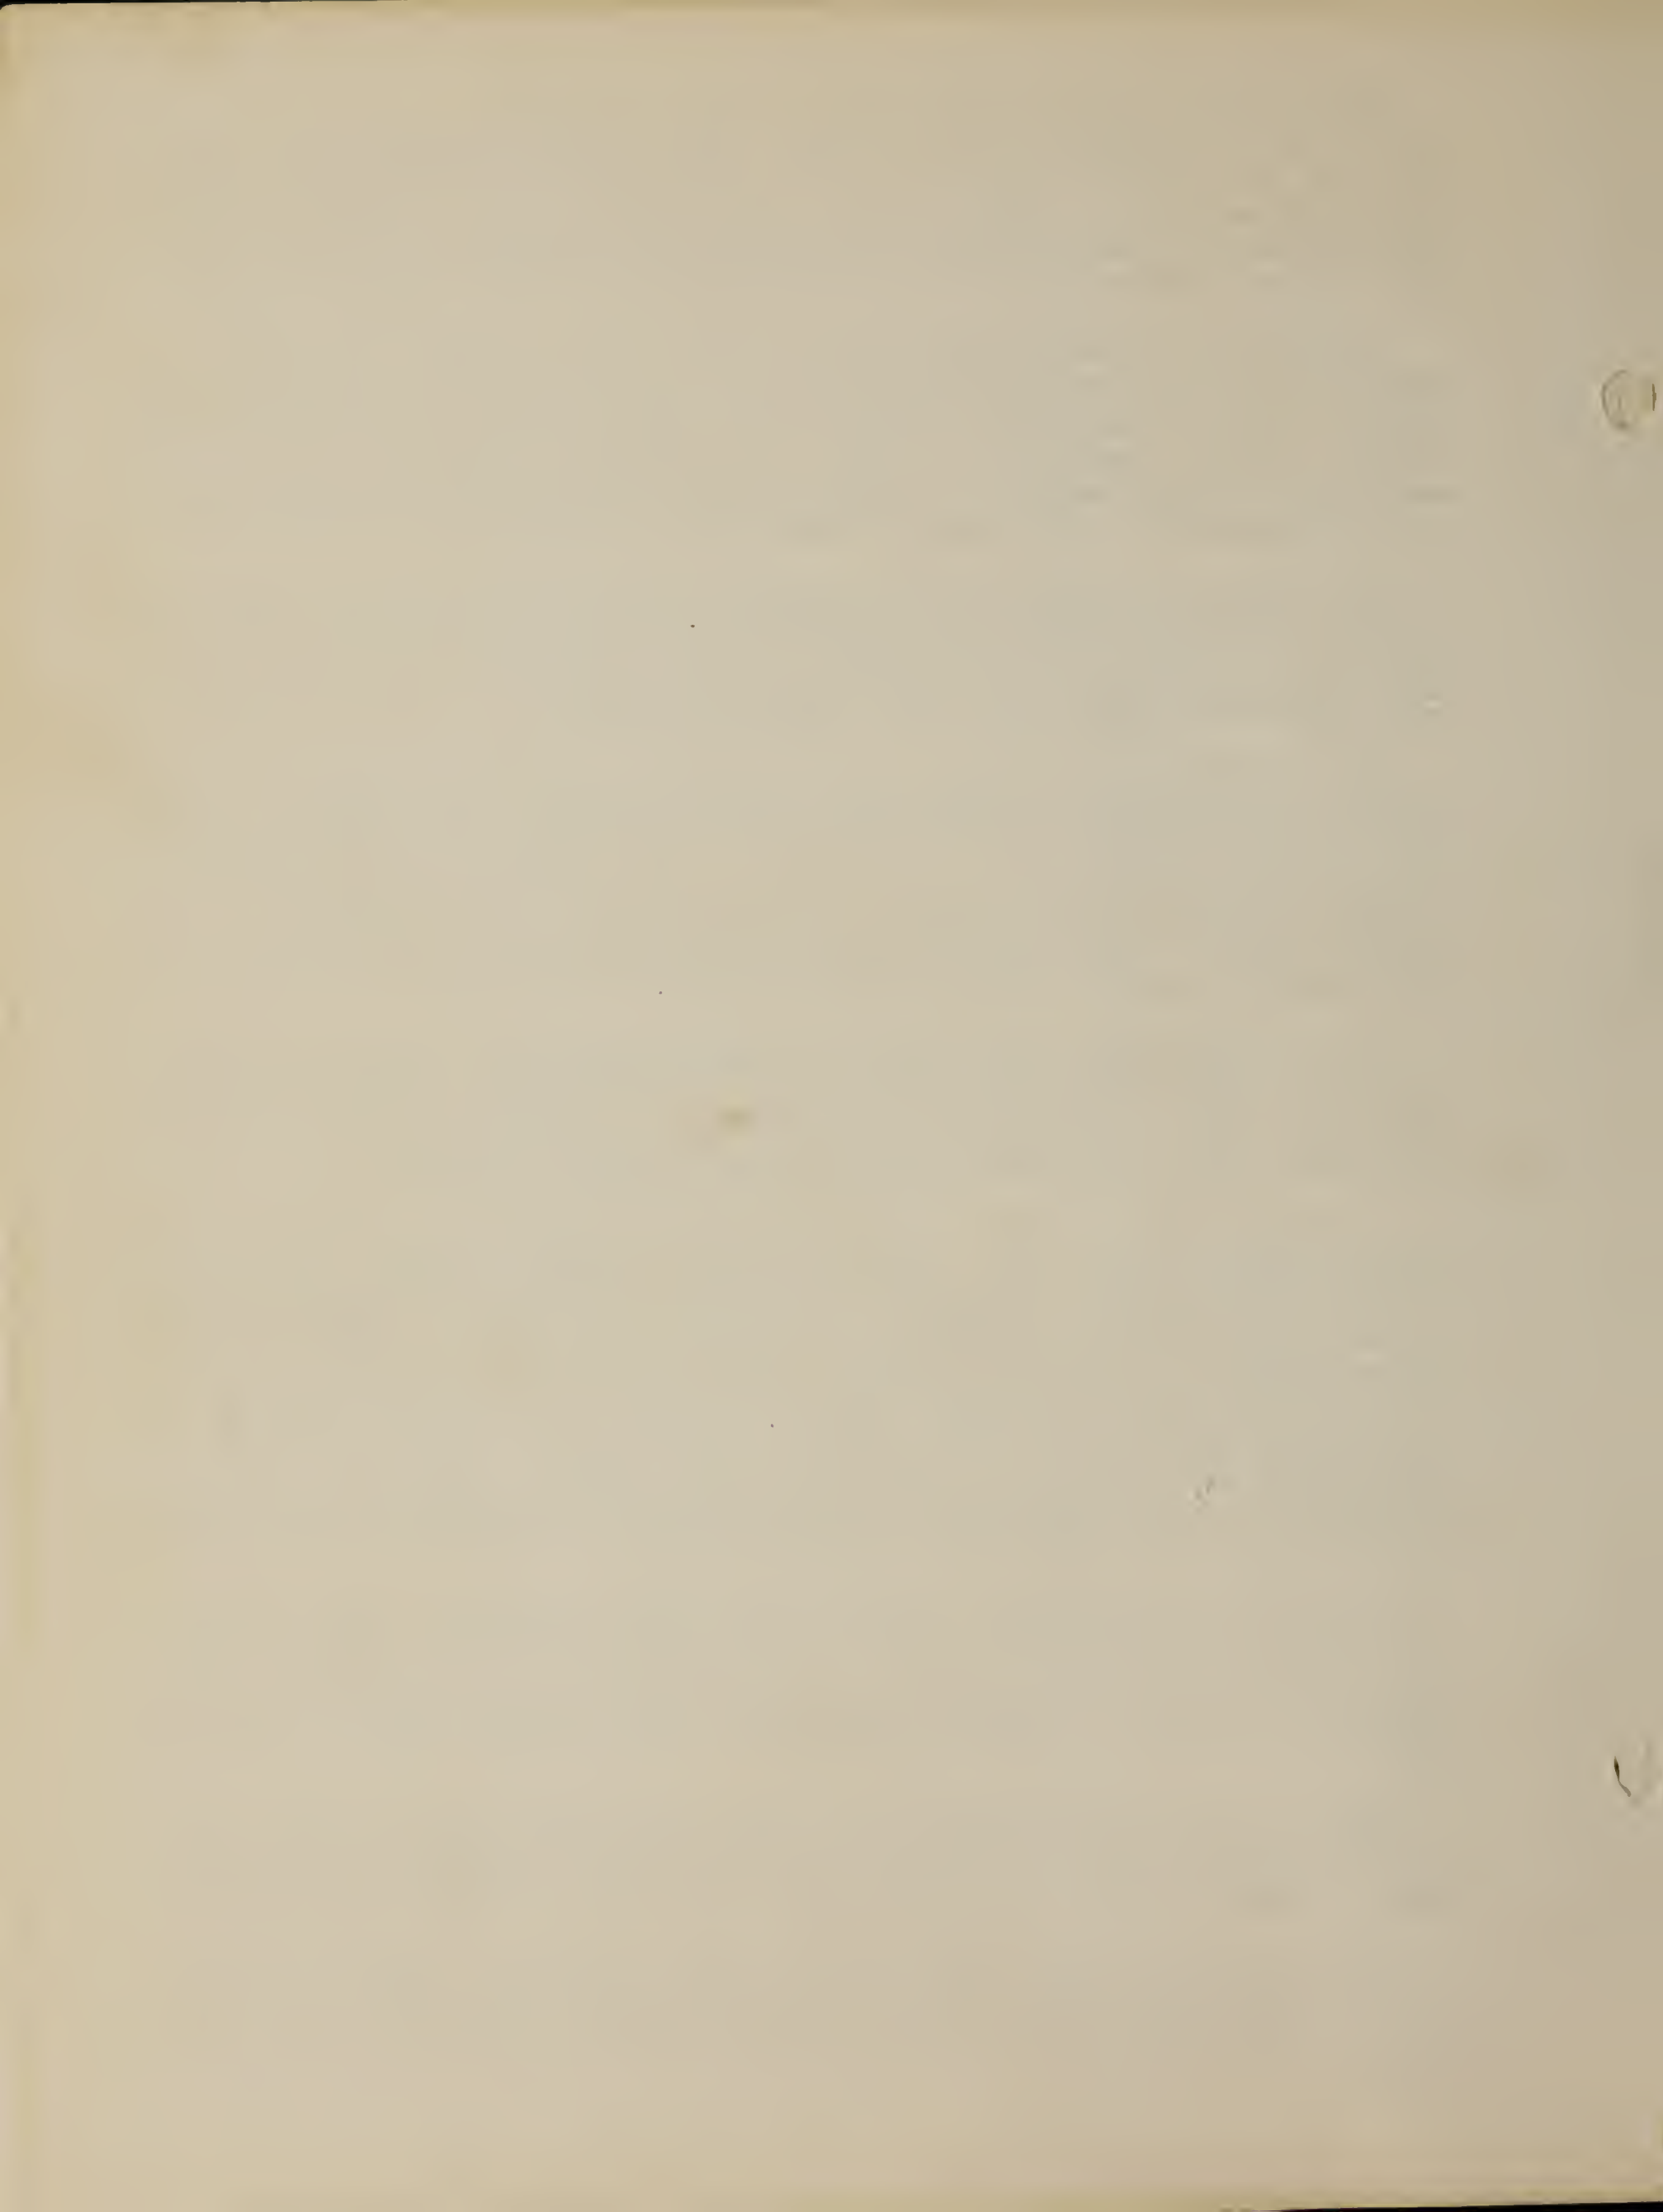

Three of Bellingham High School's faculty members are the next guests to arrive. Florence Laquerre is the math and chemistry teacher, Frances Paulhus is the commercial training teacher, and Paul Laprade is now the principal of the high school and also the psychology teacher.

It is now nine o'clock. Almost all the guests have arrived. Here come the last of them now. Robert Rocheford, Edward Newlands, and Walter Hoothay enter together followed by a rather tall, good-looking gentleman who walks quietly into the crowd. It is Henry Schwenker, a famous animal hunter, known to all of us as Coody. Bobby is now a movie star and is one of the best actors in Hollywood today. His Oscar for his performance in From Here To Mars proves that. Walter and Edward are partners in one of the biggest show business enterprises ever created. Walt does all the producing and Eddie does all the stage and set designing in their EdWar Theaters which are located all over the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Tuttle are the last guests to arrive. Mrs. Tuttle, former Constance Hachey, does all the bookkeeping for Alan's large insurance company which is known as the "Don't Be Half Sure; Insure to Be Sure Company." How can a company be anything but a success with a name like that.

There is just one classmate who hasn't been heard from on this first class reunion, but all of us feel sure that Lorraine's prayers are bestowed upon us even as she goes about serving God in her chosen vocation.

It is now time to part again for who knows how long. There may be some of these classmates that I shall never see again, but as the last good-byes are being said, I hope their futures are all as secure as they are at present.

CLASS SONG

Only make believe, we're not parting.
 Only make believe, this isn't good-bye.
 Just pretend it won't end, keep pretending,
 Not a sigh, not good-bye, just adieu.

Only make believe, we'll be together.
 In the future years, where're we may be.
 Just pretend it won't end, keep pretending,
 Not a sigh, not good-bye, just adieu.

Class History

In a corner stood a trunk, in the trunk a book.
In this book some memories, of four years gone by.
This is that story. A story still alive.

September, 1950, a month that promised the beginning of the four best years of our lives. This was the start of our high-school careers, the beginning of a lot of fun, study, and learning for thirty-two students.

The first thing we did once we were settled was elect our class officers who were: Roger Canestrari, President; Shirley Godin, Vice President; James Mazdrachi, Secretary; and Charles Gerrior, Treasurer. The two Student Council members were Paul Laprade and Lucille Grenier. Our class advisors were Miss Mulgrew and Mr. Keough, and with their guidance, we started our money-making activities which led to our class trip to Washington in our Senior Year.

Early during our Freshmen year, we were initiated by the Senior Class and treated to our first high-school dance, an acquaintance dance sponsored by this class. Later in the same year, we made a dance of our own, a May Pole Dance which we all attended and enjoyed very much.

Summer vacation that year passed very quickly, and soon we found ourselves back in school as Sophomores. Our class officers for that year were Robert Melville, President; James Mazdrachi, Vice President; Henry Schwenker, Secretary; and Muriel Lamberto, Treasurer. Student Council members were Ronald Ozella and Constance Hachey.

Our biggest money-making event that year was our Thanksgiving Dance which was a huge success. The treasury was beginning to grow, much to the delight of all the students. Late in the Sophomore year, we ordered our class rings. A new emblem was introduced to top the Bellingham High School class rings. The emblem was that of a black hawk, fast becoming famous in Bellingham and the surrounding areas as the name of one of the best basketball teams around. Our Sophomore year came to an end too rapidly for most of the students and after our class trip to Nantasket, we parted for our annual summer vacation.

Juniors, it certainly felt good. We were now sitting on top of the world, old enough to be looked upon as authority by the underclassmen, and not quite old enough to be worried about the future after leaving Bellingham High School. The outcome of our elections was: Robert Melville, President; Henry Schwenker, Vice President; Lucille Poirier, Secretary; and Ronald Koloski, Treasurer. Student Council members were Alan Tuttle and Constance Hachey. Much comotion was caused by all Juniors one October morning as we rushed in and out of the hallway showing off our new class rings to all who were willing to stop a moment and look at them. We received many compliments on our new emblem and were well pleased with ourselves for having started a new style of ring at Bellingham High School.

A Halloween Dance and our Junior Prom heralded our class events for that year, and both were very successful. Lucille Poirier was chosen as queen of the Prom and Roger Canestrari was chosen king.

We started our Senior Year off with a bang. Early in the summer we had a big paper drive which boosted our treasury in the right direction. Mr. Keough was chosen as our class advisor and our class officers were Robert Melville, President; Roland Gagnon, Vice President; Lucille Poirier, Secretary; and Ronald Koloski, Treasurer. Student Council members were Alan Tuttle and Dolores Bokoski.

Our first social event of the year was Freshmen Initiation which we enjoyed to the utmost. Those poor Freshmen! The dance that night made up for all the woe we had caused them during the day, and they all assured us that the Acquaintance Dance was a source of great pleasure for all of them.

Record Hops.....the two most famous words at Bellingham High School for the early part of the year. Every Friday night the auditorium was jammed with students who enjoyed good dancing to the most popular records in town. The girls and boys of the Senior Class never baked so many cakes as they did during those few weeks.

Basketball season soon started, and our Senior boys did a grand job on the court. They racked up one of the best records Bellingham High School ever had and Captain Roger Canestrari broke more records during the season than we ever thought existed. Our cheerleaders that year were the best ever, and their championship style netted them a victory at the Wrentham Cheering Tourney at Lake Pearl. How could they go wrong with girls like Constance Hachey, Lucille Poirier, Dolores Bokoski, Claire Gauthier, and Carol Bouliane leading the cheers?

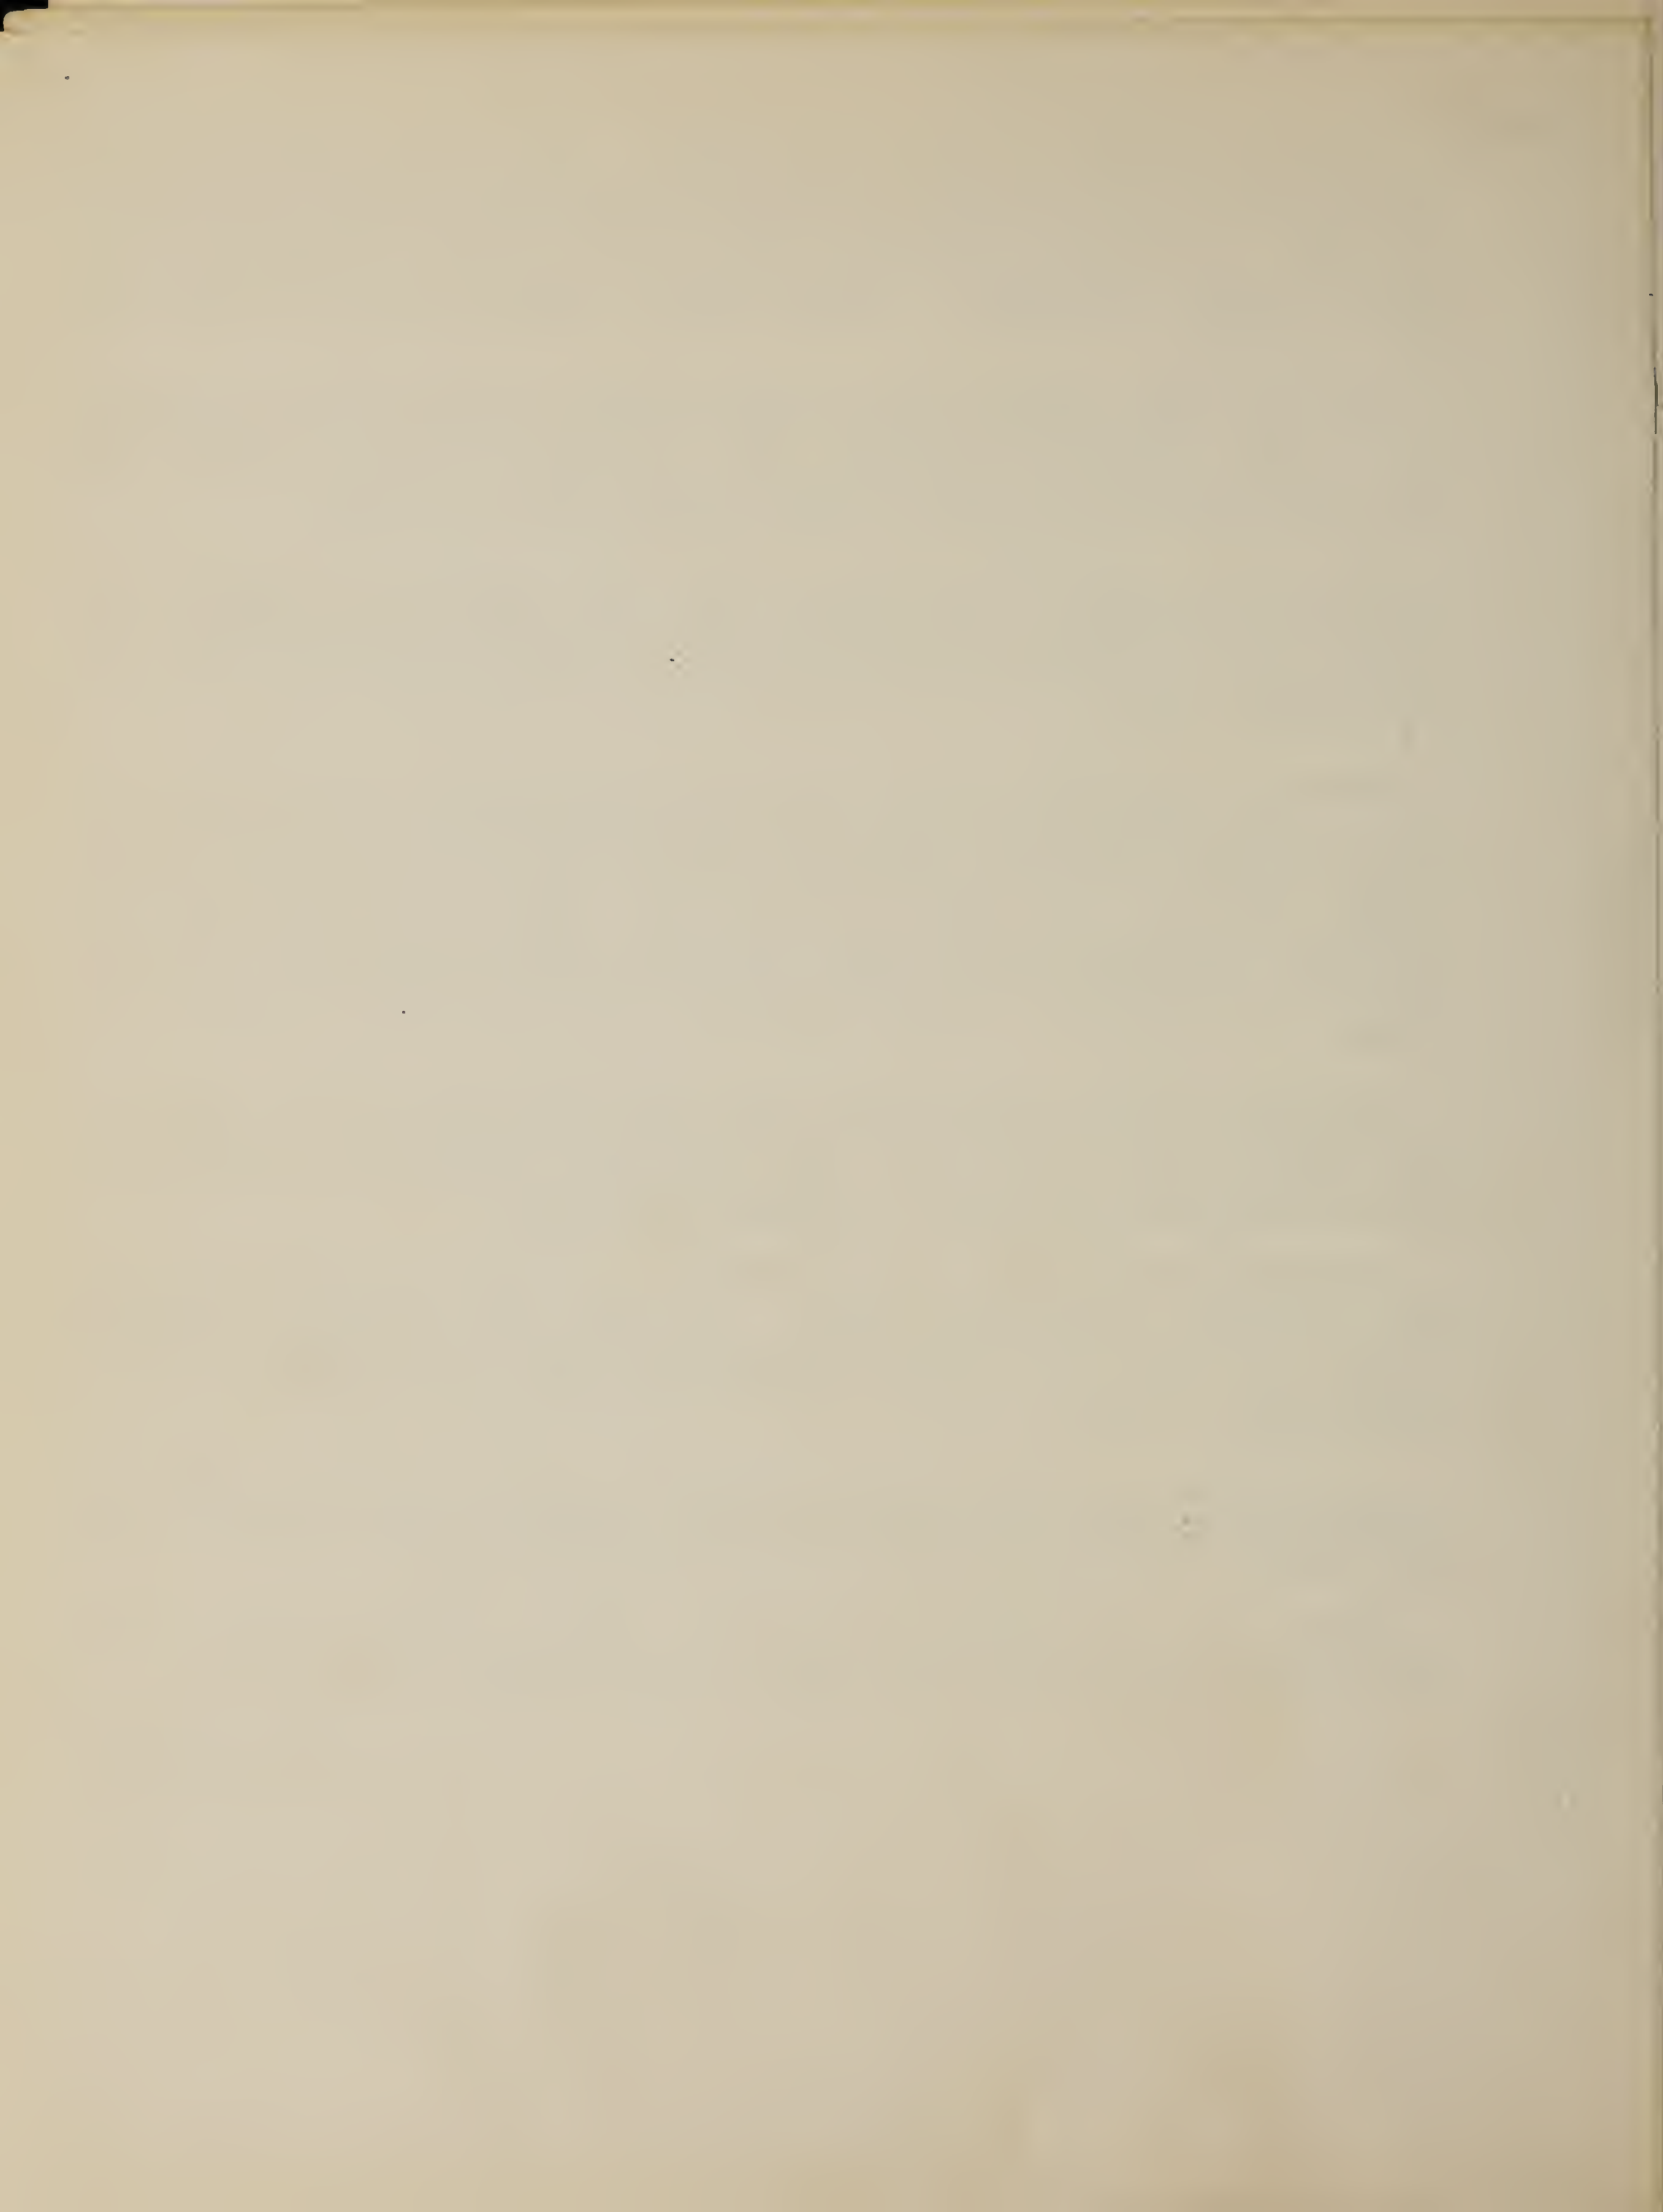

Our greatest task of the year was the publication of our annual yearbook, The Epilogue. Dolores Pretto was elected Editor-in-chief and was assisted by eight other members of the class. Never was there so much typing and rushing around as there was during the printing of the yearbook.

Our February musical was a grand success and it made up for the awful let-down we had at our Lions Club Dance. Not every affair can be a success, though, and we did not let one failure keep us down. Our gigantic "Dollar Donation for a $50 Bill" brought the money flying into the treasury so fast we couldn't keep up with it.

All our efforts to raise money were more than worth it, for never was there anything so enjoyable as our Washington Trip. We may not have painted the Town red, but the hotel we stayed in will never be the same!

Now our class has graduated and parted, but the memories of these good times we had during the past four years will live forever in our hearts.

 Tut: "What of it?"
 Jim: "I was dancing with her when she asked me."

Flo: "This cook book is full of mistakes."
 Kay: "I know, I've tasted them."

Rog: "Did you ever tickle a mule?"
 Ed: "No."
 Rog: "You aught to try it sometime, you'd get a big kick out of it."

Miss Mulgrew: "Robert, what does HNO₃ signify?"
 Butch: "Well, ah..er..I've got it right on the tip of my tongue, Miss."
 Walt: "Well, you'd better spit it out, it's nitric acid."

Cop: "Look, lady, don't you know this is a safety zone?"
 Sowski: "Of course, that's why I drove in here."

Bobby: "Sir, I don't think I deserve this zero."
 Mr. Keough: "I'm sorry, but that is the lowest mark I can give."

Pretzel: "What baseball team are you for?"
 Lou: "I'm for the Nylons, they get the most runs."

Coody: "Are all the fellas out of the woods yet?"
 Billy: "Yes."
 Coody: "All six of them?"

 Coody: "Are they all safe?"
 Billy: "Yes, why?"
 Coody: "Well then, I've shot a deer."

Shirl: "All geniuses are conceited."
 Pesky: "Most of them are, but I'm not."

George: "Oh, please forgive me for walking on your feet."
 Claire: "That's nothing, I often walk on them myself."

Connie: "Did you know that thinking is a disease?"
 Carol: "Don't worry, Connie, you're vaccinated."

Mrs. Kelley: "Why are you holding your ear while I'm talking to you?"
 Gette: "I don't want what you say to go in one ear and out the other."

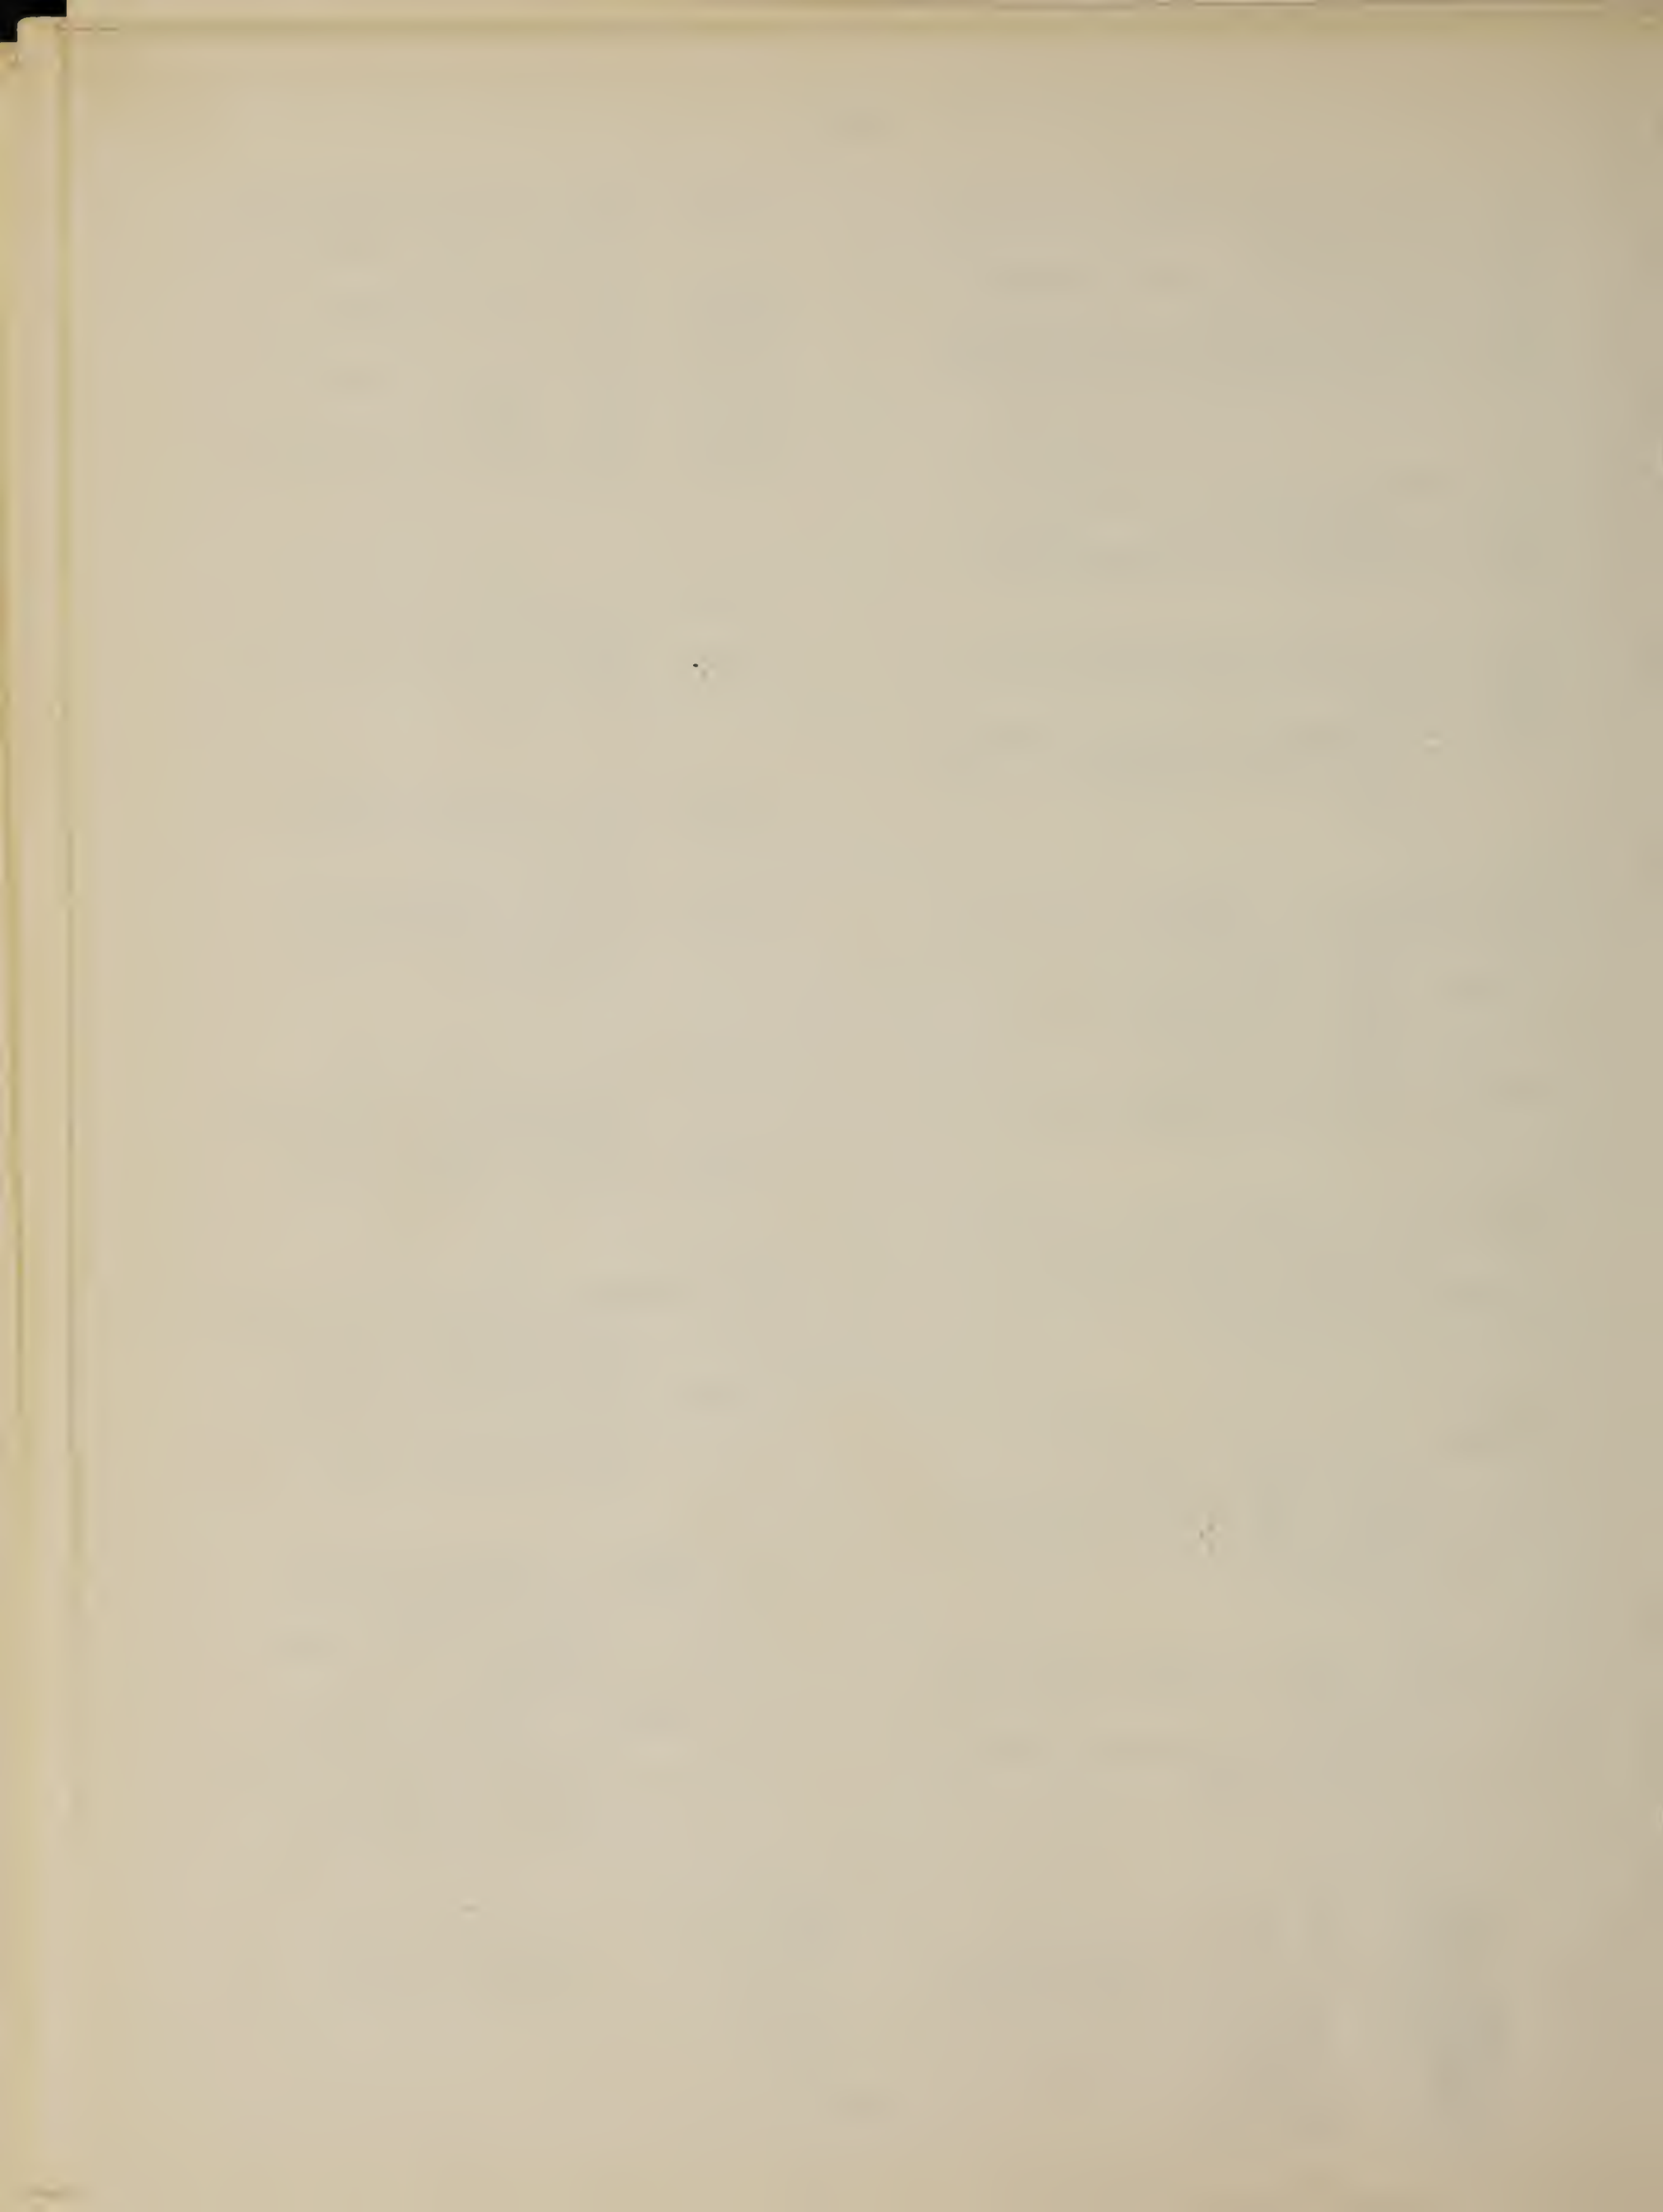

Mr. Flynn: "Why are you all doubled over?"
 Rookie: "I have cramps in my stomach."
 Mr. Flynn: "Why don't you go to the hospital?"
 Rookie: "Because I don't have a class this period."

The night we cooked for our Bazaar,
We wished that we could call, "Hey, Ma!"

Until our $50 bill was raffled.

The fun we had on paper drives,
We'll always remember the rest of our lives.

The Bellingham Blackhawks of "54" shall always be remembered as one of the best teams coached by Frank Flynn. They played a rugged season and came through it with flying colors. They were the only team in Bellingham High School History ever to reach the semi-finals in two tournaments, and their record of 20 wins and 5 defeats throughout the whole season and tournament games shows that they were playing to win all the time.

The Seniors contributed six members to the basketball team. Roger Canestrari, Captain, and Henry Schwenker, James Mazdrachi, Ronald Koloski, Ronald Ozella, and Alan Tuttle were all members of a great varsity team.

The "54" Blackhawks retained hold of the Woonsocket Retail Trade Board Trophy by defeating Blackstone, and also retained hold of the Denise W. Howard Memorial Plaque by defeating Franklin. Both wins came in third game tilts.

All of the Seniors played outstanding games, but Roger Canestrari will always be remembered as the outstanding Bellingham Basketball Player of all time. His 577 points for the "54" season broke all previous records, and his wonderful defensive play will be the aim of many good basketball players at Bellingham High School in the future basketball seasons.

The Jayvees played great ball this season, and with players like B. Purich, D. Canestrari, H. Schwenker, J. Chliscyzk, C. Cramb, R. Gagnon, D. Dahlstrom, and B. Murray playing varsity, They should have a very successful season next year.

Baseball

Spring weather is baseball weather, and in the middle of April Coach Frank Flynn called for candidates for his "53" baseball team. Most of the team was made up of last year's seniors, Paul Petrosky, Al Marcet, Drew Palmer, Kenneth Young, Sonny Miotti, James Hachey, Bradley Rowe, Francis Locklin, and Roy Gavasso.

This year's seniors on the team were Roger Canestrari, Henry Schwenker, Bob Melville, Ronald Koloski, and Ronald Ozella.

The "53" baseball team had an excellent season, winning 12 out of 13 games played. The team won the Class B Tri County Championship, and Paul Petrosky, catcher for the team, was given a contract to play with one of the Athletics' Minor League teams.

Though this year's team has lost most of its "53" starting team, we hope that we may have as good a team as that of the previous year. With the coaching of a great coach like Frank Flynn, and with spirit like that shown by all athletes of Bellingham High School during the past few years, we look forward to a season as bright and victorious as last year's.

A . A .

The Athletic Association is made up of a group of students under the direction of Coach Flynn which enables the basketball and baseball teams to raise sufficient funds for equipment. Members of this organization who sell and collect tickets, score and time games are: Constance Lemire, Frances Paulhus, Dolores Pretto, Joseph Gavasso, Charles Gerrior, Carol Chaplin, Shirley Godin, Robert Melville, Arlene Plant, Shulla Palmer, and Roland Gagnon.
